VETERANS REPRESENTAIVE AT RUMFORD, SEPT. 21

Richard E Fortier, officer-in-charge of the Veterans Administration Office, Lewiston, Maine has announced that a Contact Representative from that office would be on official business in the vicinity of Rumford on Thursday, Sept. 21, 1950. Because of numerous requests from officials of service organizations and veterans, the Contact Representative will stop at the Rumford Post Office from 10:00 a. m. to 1:00 p. m. for the purpose of assisting any veterans or their dependents on any matter pertaining to the Veterans Administration. All interested persons are requested to see the Contact Representative at that time.

SOME AMERICANS ELIGIBLE TO RECEIVE CANADIAN WAR SERVICE GRATUITIES

Richard E Fortier, officer in charge of the VA office at Lewiston has received from the Canadian Departmnet of Veterans Affairs a statement clarifying recent announcements which have appeared in regard to War Service Gratuities available to American citizens who served in the Canadian Forces.

"This gratuity is available only to World War II veterans," the statement said. "It is not a new piece of legislation and has been in effect since before the end of the second World War. The vast majority of Americans eligible for it have received it, but there are a few hundred who have not yet made application. These comparative few should apply to the branch of the service, Navy, Army or Air Force to which they were attached."

Fortier stated that the statement emphasized that in addition to the gratuity, American citizens who served with the Canadians also have available to them a Re-establishment Credit, which is based on period and theater of service in Canada. These re-establishment credits may be used in a number of specified ways in Canada, but ex-members of the Canadian Forces residing in the United States may use them only for the payment of premiums on Veterans Insurance. Some thousands of American citizens who served with the Canadians have not yet made application to use their re-establishment credit in this way.

"It is important that they make application soon," the Canadian Department of Veterans Affairs statement warned, "because the right to apply for Veterans Insurance ends February 20, 1951, or six years after discharge, whichever is the later date."

Full details about the Re-establishment Credit and Veterans Insurance can be secured by writing to the Canadian Department of Veterans Affairs, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada.

MAINE WRITER'S FIRST STORY WINS $1000 PRIZE

A Maine woman has won a $1000 contest-prize with her first successful attempt at story writing.

Ruth Fosdick Jones, of West Baldwin, wife of a Portland advertising man and sister of the nationally prominent clergyman, Dr Harry Emerson Fosdick, received the prize for a children's serial story which will be published by Jack and Jill Magazine, sponsors of the contest.

The award will be presented to Mrs Jones by famous authoress Pearl Buck at a luncheon to be held in Philadelphia on September 27.

Her story, entitled "Young Master Kaffe" and based on ancient Egyptian history, won out over 401 other entries. Mrs Jones began it more than 12 years ago while teaching ancient history to grade school children. After her marriage she put it aside and worked on it only intermittently until she read of the contest and decided to enter it.

A native of Buffalo, N. Y., Mrs Jones was graduated from Mount Holyoke College and after teaching school for a while she worked for the New York book publishing firms of Harper Bros. and Macmillan Co., prior to her marriage. With her husband and three children, who range in age from eight to two, she now lives on a farm near West Baldwin.

Mrs Harry Kuzyk and son Peter were recent guests of Dr and Mrs Richard Bush and son Teddy at Belmont, Mass.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare

During the first weeks of the Korean War Americans were stunned by the tragic inadequacy of our forces and equipment. Many felt a personal responsibility for the needless loss of life. It was a healthy and well-founded reaction which will lead to correction of mistakes and weeding out of inept officials. There are already encouraging signs of improvement. John Osborne, Time and Life senior correspondent in the Pacific, writes: "The American effort and the American soldier in Korea are magnificent. Doubtless we could and should have been better prepared. But . . . today we have in Korea more men and more arms than we sent to the invasion of North Africa in November of 1942, eleven months after Pearl Harbor."

Intelligence reports received in Washington indicate that the evident military ability of this country to cope with the communists in Korea has empressed the countries of Southeast Asia. Applications for communist party membership are dwindling and pictures of the communist leader Mao Tse-tung are disappearing from shop windows. Even more encouraging is the opinion of authorities on the mystery of why Russia has not moved into other areas while the United States has its hands full in Korea. They point out that we have in readiness, prepared to strike with hair-trigger swiftness, a fleet of more than 2,000 Air Force bombers able to carry atom bombs within a matter of hours to every major city in Russia. And we have the bombs to do the job. If the opinion of these authorities is correct, this factor, plus an industrial production potential of near astronomical proportions, has checked Russia for the time being.

Another element of strength that is not fully appreciated is the growing efficiency and productive capacity of American agriculture. Food is a mighty weapon and our farms are producing it in record quantities. The magazine Country Gentlemen recently described what has been happening on the farm: "Ever since the end of World War II, farmers have been turning out, year after year, nearly a fourth more than in the year of Pearl Harbor, and it's hard to picture the peaks to which farm output might be pushed under necessity. Leading agricultural scientists now believe that the output of the farm plant of the United States could be doubled by putting to use all the production knowledge we now have.

Why Worry About Debt?

Wars are won with sacrifices—not only sacrifices of blood and lives but sacrifices felt in the civilian pocketbook and in the kitchen cupboard, sacrifices of comfort and convenience and enjoyment. In the totalitarian nation the dictator and his ruling clique impose and distribute sacrifices as they see fit. In our Republic we establish a military rule over sacrifices in our armed services, but we citizens, as the ruling element in the government must ourselves fix the form and degree of our civilian sacrifices.

Such self-determined sacrifice is not an easy voluntary achievement. Grave responsibility is therefore placed upon the nation's governmental leadership, in the Congress and in the White House. There is a natural tendency in the political realm to want to water-down the sacrifices to cater to the human weakness, to gloss back the hard financial facts of war's demands.

Cost Withheld

Our soldiers and airmen are being maimed and killed in the Korean war theater, our government is voting multi-billion dollar emergency funds to more adequately equip them and to otherwise build up our own and Europe's defenses, but some national policy makers do not wish to reveal the total price in civilian sacrifices, that must be paid for this effort. They want to continue borrowing money to finance the major portion of the war effort and a sizeable part of the civilian governmental services. They want, in other words, to continue the "guns life" while waging what at any time may become the "most terrible" war.

To adopt this "least painful" procedure is very temporary political expedience. But it creates a dangerous situation which can become as devastating as a losing war. The fiscal facts are these. We have entered a state-of-war period in which the Federal government will spend at least $40 billion a year on military preparation. The present non-military items in the budget require $30 billion. Thus we have at once a $70 billion projected Federal expenditure. Federal tax revenues, including the new $5 billion, will be, as now projected, about $42 billion which would leave a deficit of $28 billion for this year, if nothing worse happens.

Belt Tightening:

Three drastic actions should be taken.

1. The non-military items in the Federal budget should be cut to the bone. Sen. Harry Byrd has offered a proposal that would trim them by $10 billion.

2. A board of long-sighted, experienced business men should be created and given power to cut every bit of waste from military expenditures. Pledges of the Hoover Commission and other revelations indicate from 10 to 20 per cent could be added to the purchasing power of appropriations if waste were eliminated and sound purchasing procedure established.

3. The state-of-war budget should be brought as nearly into balance as circumstances will permit, even if it means heavy additional taxation equitably distributed throughout the population. This action would make the full monetary cost of war and the economic sacrifices entailed painfully apparent to all Americans and thus should throw into a more active participation in the affairs of their nation.

Oh, Pitfall

Senator Byrd's proposal would cut both domestic non-defense items in the 1951 total this means $31 billion out of $70 billion from Marshall Plan funds being sent to Europe for economic economic projects and another $1 billion from such expendable items as public housing and public works, trim administrative and readjustment programs expenses of the VA by $1 billion, trim government civilian payrolls and tighten up the general functions of government, thus saving several hundred million.

But the direction of the government's fiscal affairs is toward bigger borrowings and ever bigger debts, continued waste, continued big domestic peacetime spending program, continued expansion of the Federal payrolls. The attitude being created is "Oh, why worry about a $70 or $100 billion debt within five years" Pitfall, why speak of it? Here's why. We could win the terrible war which seems to be developing and yet lose our freedom — our nation — in economic collapse caused by this ruinous fiscal policy. History records just such tragedies.

Next week. The Hidden Enemy — Inflation.

Metals and machinery industries are on the increase in Maine, with more than 60 such plants having a total annual product of more than $60,000,000.

The Divinity of Maine products more than 1,000 different kinds has been a stabilizing factor in the economy of the Pine Tree State.

Appreciation Pays Off

TODAY'S PIECE is for those in authority who find that disciplinary measures have failed. And it comes to you from experts in handling people.

The first principle that every one of these experts propounds, in different words, of course, is that unless a person is happy in what you have persuaded him to do you are getting only 50 per cent efficiency.

Carnegie

William James, eminent professor of Harvard University, seemed to have thought that you can best get the most out of a person, that you can the most easily persuade him to "do it your way" by showing him appreciation, for said Mr. James, "The deepest principle in human nature is the craving to be appreciated."

Charles M. Schwab, one-time chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, said that the best way to influence people is by making them happy in what they are doing — is to "be hearty in approbation and lavish in praise."

When Napoleon created the legion of honor, he did it to show his appreciation of his men. Did those men care about the bits of metal in the little crosses they received? Certainly not. But they did care about the approval of their emperor; they were happy in serving him; they craved his praise, and those little crosses were the symbol.

Henry Clay Risner used Napoleon's technique when he wanted to influence the conduct of the American doughboy. He had been told by General James Harbord that in his opinion the two million American soldiers in France were the cleanest and most idealistic group of men with whom he had ever come in contact. So Henry Clay Risner took occasion to repeat that statement to those men time after time. It made them happy. He knew that that was a sure-fire way of inspiring them to be clean and idealistic.

One more: Warden Lawes, for 20 years Warden of Sing Sing prison, told me once that he had in nearly every instance found that when he treated a prisoner as if he were a gentleman and on the level, that man responded in kind. (And since every man, even though he may have committed a crime, has good in him, he was truly at the time what the Warden seemed to believe him to be.)

So in dealing with people, with your children, with your helpers, make them happy by treating them as if you expect the best of them, and you will be likely to get the best.

THIS WEEK IN Washington

SPECULATION in Washington as a result of bitter partisan debates in the congress ran the gamut of whether President Truman would veto the proposed control bill and the revised "interim" tax bill and whether or not a "fireside chat" to the people would ease the political pressure on the administration as a result of GOP charges of laxity in pre-Korean war preparations.

Despite charges of administration blunders, whether true or untrue, the harping and "piousness hypocrisy" apparent in the deliberations of congress was tending to hamstring the administration efforts in carrying on the Korean war and defense security and efforts at combatting Russian propaganda on the floor of the United Nations security council at Lake Success.

In the name of politics, congress is handing the President a control bill so fraught with restrictions as to make it nigh impossible at administration. As this is written, there was conjecture as to whether or not the President would accept the measure. At the same time, the congress made no secret of its haste to pass the draft law and to get men into military service as fast as possible. It was averse to drafting dollars, business and industry to pay the price in a comprehensive tax bill.

The senate changed radically the controls bill passed by the house, acting on several of scores of the President in administering the emergency measure. One amendment proposed by Sen. John W. Bricker of Ohio makes it mandatory on the part of the President to control wages and prices in all industries and on all commodities if he deems it necessary to control in one industry or one commodity. In other words, if the President and his advisers believed it necessary to control prices on soy beans or automobile wheels to prevent inflation or runaway prices on those two items, it would be necessary for him to institute price and wage controls on everything. Another anti-administration amendment adopted was fostered by Senator Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado specifying that the secretary of commerce should handle the entire allocation and priorities program. The administration wanted it left to the President to decide which agency would handle particular allocations. It appeared likely that at least this Johnson restriction would be stricken out of the bill in conference.

Instead of giving the President authority to regulate speculation on the commodity exchanges, the senate adopted an amendment giving the commodity exchanges themselves authority to police speculators.

The senate passed the perennial federal highway bill after lopping off approximately $350,000,000 in authorizations at the expense of the secondary and urban road program. Total bill authorizations passed by the Senate was $1,138,000,000, while the bill passed by the house carried authorization of $1,282,000,000. President Truman had asked the bill to be cut a total of $240,000,000 for the two year period ending June 30, 1953, but the senate went on to slash $119,000,000 more out of the bill, after completely eliminating a new formula for distribution for roads adjacent to large cities in the inter-state highway system.

As it went to the conference the bill provided authorization for fiscal 1951 and 1952: $225,000,000 for primary roads; $125,000,000 for secondary roads; $112,500,000 for urban roads; and annual expenditures of $40,000,000 for forest highways; $10,000,000 for park roads and trails; $12,000,000 for parkways; $6,000,000 for Indian reservation roads and $3,000,000 for emergency highway repairs and construction; $4,000,000 for the Inter-American highway; $10,000,000 for roads in military installations; $5,000,000 for roads on public domain and $1,500,000 for the Tongass forest roads in Alaska.

The motion to slash $120,000,000 from the secondary or farm-to-market road authorization was made by Senators Harry Byrd of Virginia and Styles Bridges of New Hampshire. It remains to be seen whether the appropriations committees will actually furnish the money.

Fight in the emergency tax bill was over an excess profits tax feature.

by LYTLE HULL

By LYTLE HULL

THE NAMES of those who are now giving their lives for their country and for human liberty should be inscribed upon the rolls of honor of every civilized nation in the world, and should be placed where man can see them and revere them always. They have been thrown into a gap which was becoming wider as time and political ambitions overshadowed patriotism and plain horse sense. They have been sacrificed upon the altar of international stupidity; their stories should be a lesson to governments and peoples for generations to come.

If the Korean affair is taken seriously and the free world realizes, at long last, that there is no such thing as appeasement in this struggle for world domination, their sacrifice will not have been in vain. But if the democracies continue to labor under the impression that they can do business as usual until such time as the U.N. persuades Stalin to abandon his plans, then their lives will have been thrown away and ours will remain in dire peril.

It isn't fair to place the entire blame upon the various national governments alone. When the second world war ended, it was the people who demanded immediate return home of all troops, even from those positions around the world which military brains knew must be held against a threat that was only too apparent.

The people forced their governments' hands—where they needed forcing—and they allowed their governments to make the most outrageous tactical mistakes.

We give you China as an illustration. And even at this moment, when nearly everyone realizes that the Korean affair is the beginning of war to the finish, our government and most of our people still remain hypnotized by the Red propaganda which deprived us of the one "fortification" which might win for us—Spain!

"I REMEMBER"
BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. James Montgomery of Blackwell, Okla.: "I remember the high snow drifts back in Pennsylvania when the weather was below zero and folks would hitch horses to bobsleds and go to a neighbor's to spend the evening. The women sewed carpet rags or quilted while their men talked politics and the children popped corn and cracked nuts. At 10 o'clock a supper was served. After supper we'd return to the parlor for a Bible reading, a prayer and a hymn before going home, tired but happy.

From Andrew Manning of Sandusky, O.: "I'm a Spanish American war veteran and my wife and I remember some of the songs that were popular in my soldiering days like "Break the News to Mother," "There'll Be a Hot Time In the Old Town Tonight" and "My Sweetheart Went Down With the Maine."

From Mrs. Willie A. Emanuel of Lumberton, N. C.: Here are some of the old-time song titles I remember: "Sweet Marie," "Bill Bailey, Won't You Please Come Home?," "I'm Nobody's Darling," "Away Down In My Heart I Got a Feeling For You" and a song the darkies used to sing on the plantation that went, "Oh, It's Almost Morning. Don't You Hear That Shanghai Crowing?" I also remember hearing my mother sing "Home Sweet Home" and it made a lasting impression on me.

FALL FOLIAGE AND HUNTING IN MAINE! — COUNTRY FAIR DATE, OTHER EVENTS

Autumn long has been noted as the best time of the year in Maine. The leaves on Maine's several score varieties of trees and tall shrubs begin to turn into full color from mid-September on, the change coming a week or so earlier in the northern part of the State.

By the last week of September and during the month of October the red, scarlet and orange of the maples, the yellows of the birches and elms, the bright green and bluish green of the pine, fire and spruce light up the entire countryside in the brilliant Fall sunshine.

Warm, dry days and clear, cool nights mark the September-October period of Indian Summer. Maine highways then are most inviting, new construction is mostly completed and the open road beckons to scenic tours that are a recreational joy. Roads' hill top panoramas unfold Nature's majestic canvasses, with constantly changing gradations of color as sunbeams and cloud shadows sweep the landscape to far horizons. Then come the brilliant red and orange of autumn sumacs, blending with the many hued foliage, to bring the majestic symphony of color to an awe-inspiring climax at the end of each day.

The Maine Harvest Season is in full swing during the "Indian Summer" period, with golden squash and pumpkins gathered near corn shocks yellowing in the fields. Light frosts at times will put a glistening sheen over the countryside under the yellow harvest moon.

This is the time when Maine's old fashioned Country Fairs come into their own. Prize-winning displays of vegetables, fruits and prime beef cattle, exhibits of fine needlework, hooked rugs and home-crafts, horse and oxen pulling contests, fast sulky racing and the congenial "visiting" and neighborliness all make the Maine Country Fair the big event of the year in each section.

Larger fairs still retaining the old-time "country" flavor are held at Norway-South Paris, this week, Farmington, Sept 18-23, Cumberland, Sept 25-29, Fryeburg, Oct 2-7, and Topsham, Oct 9-14. Smaller Fairs even closer to the heart of Maine country life and in picturesque rural setting will be held at Exeter, Sept 7-9, Cherryfield, Sept 12-14, Acton (York County), Sept 14-16, Camden, Sept 15, Readfield, Sept 23, Monmouth, Sept 27-28, North Waterford (Ward's Fair), Sept 28-30, Litchfield, Oct 3-4, Leeds Center, Oct 5, Cornish, Oct 9-11 and New Gloucester, Oct 10-21.

"Topical" harness race meets also are scheduled near the larger cities during September and October. Several State Association golf tournaments during the period will highlight the prime playing conditions on Maine's 70-odd scenic courses along the coast and inland. Horse and dog shows, field trials, harvest suppers and football are among other Autumn favorites in Maine.

Fall also is the time for hunting in Maine, with the upland game bird season opening Oct. 1 and the new Federal migratory bird regulations applying along a 2,500 mile coast which provides the best duck, geese and waterfowl shooting in the northeastern United States.

The Deer hunting season opens Oct. 21 in the six northern counties and Nov. 1 in the ten southern counties, closing for all on Nov. 30. One deer of either sex is the season limit. No closed season exists for bear and bobcat, for which the State pays $15 bounties, and fox may be hunted anytime in organized territory. Rabbit hunting begins Oct. 1 and gray squirrels may be taken during the month of October. Hunting of raccoon with dogs begins Oct. 16. Maine's wild life resources are found in every county and corner of the State and hunting is done even within a few miles of the largest cities.

Maine inland fishing comes to a close Sept. 30, except for fly-fishing only until Oct. 15 in five lakes of the Rangeley chain. No closed season, limit, or license exists for salt-water sports fishing.

Detailed information on Maine in Autumn, Hunting in Maine and events of interest may be obtained free at any time from the Maine Publicity Bureau, Portland.

a peek at THE STARS

By LYN CONNELLY

BY THIS FALL most of the big names in radio and screen will have entered television and it will mean the day of reckoning for amateur comedians, jugglers, acrobats and other vaudeville acts that have no place in the television world of tomorrow . . . Of the video pioneers, there are two great troupers who will be to the new medium what Hope, Cantor, Benny, Skelton and Allen were to the development of radio . . . They are Imogene Coca and Sid Caesar, stars of NBC's great program, "Show of Shows."

CAESAR

The fairer sex member of television's pride and joy is a veteran of the stage although she, according to her own opinion, has played in "nothing but dogs" on Broadway since she broke into show business 15 years ago . . . A dynamo on the air, in person she is so shy and retiring you hardly know she's in the same room . . . A dramatic actress, she was backstage one evening when she put on her director's polo coat, about six sizes too large, to keep warm. She appeared so comical that the producer of the show thought she would be a natural for comedy . . . He was so right that today we have TV's top comedienne and one of the few pantomime experts in the business.

Sid, too, became a professional by accident . . . He was a musician when he enlisted in the coast guard during World War II . . . Because of his natural wit, he was given the role of a comedian in the coast guard's great production, "Tars and Spars" . . . He played the same part in the movie and made his television debut last year . . . There was no intention of teaming Imogene and Sid . . . They were terrific as solos but it was inevitable that they would combine their talents in some of television's most hilarious moments . . . They go together like taffy on an apple.

Yes, television has come of age and a great deal of the credit will go deservedly to these two.

COUNCIL COMPARES POST OFFICE AND TELEPHONE COMPANY OPERATIONS

For taxpayers of Oxford County the $558,000,000 deficit of the Post Office Department in the Federal fiscal year which ended June 30 will approximately $123,740 in terms of general Federal taxes, according to a study released by the Council of State Chambers of Commerce.

The explained that this figure is Oxford County's proportion of Maine's share of the overall loss sustained by taxpayers through the failure of the Federal Government to run the Post Office within its income.

The Council's study showed that except for a few scattered years the Post Office has been doing business at a loss for 60 years. Since the end of World War II these losses were found to total $1,758,044,200 which means roughly an extra tax of $12 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

Support for an effort in Congress to cut $28,107,000 off the $[illegible],000 postal deficit expected this year was urged in the study. It recalled that in expectation of this cut Postmaster General Donaldson in April ordered such economies as a reduction from two to one in the number of mail deliveries daily in residential areas, fewer mail box collections, etc. But the House of Representatives recently voted against these economies. Whether they will stick remains up to the Senate.

In addition to this 28-million-dollar saving, the study urged the Hoover Commission recommendations for putting the Post Office on a business-like basis be carried out.

Finding the Post Office and the Bell Telephone System comparable in size, number of employees and the nature of their services (communications), the study observed that the private enterprise operated at a profit and paid Federal, State and local taxes last year totaling $340,144,000. It also pointed out that the Bell System acted as tax-gatherer for the Government, collecting from subscribers and other users $445,000,000 last year in Federal excise taxes on telephone calls.

MAYOR McGUP

By John Jarvis

THE COUNTRY PRESS SAYS

Paris, Tenn., Parisian: "Latest Civil Service figures show that the U. S. Bureau of Indian Affairs employs 12,741 people to care for the 333,069 Indians in this country. This is an average of one bureaucrat for every 27 Indians."

Whitesburg, Kentucky, Mountain Eagle: "Homer Alexander, newspaper columnist, recently wrote that studies now being made show that Federal propaganda forces—about 45,000 government hired publicity writers—are engaged in a cold war against voluntary health insurance, for example. Pay-it-yourself plans have been entirely too successful for the socialistic state planners. It is sure rubbing it in when we, through taxes, are forced to pay the wages for work that is often against our best interests."

Cuero, Texas, Record: "Since the beginning of the Korean incident there has been mounting demand from many sources for curtailment of government activities in line with the curtailments which will be demanded of private business and individuals. Industry is expected to submit to materials allocation and to government instructions as to priority of orders; retail business is expected to co-operate in measures to hold down prices and reduce consumer buying, thus reducing their income. Many individuals will have to leave their civilian pursuits and enter military service; those who stay at home are expected to adjust their lives to the needs of national emergency. Why should not the government, also, make sacrifices?"

Middlebourne, West Virginia, Tyler Co. Journal: "Will inflation can be brought upon ourselves here if we hoard, buy greedily and try to purchase our future needs from today's stock and bid and vie against each other for possession of commodities of life."

Emporia, Kansas, Gazette: "The right of revolution proclaimed by Jefferson, and reiterated by Lincoln, was conceived to be the right of the people to overthrow a tyranny, not the right of open advocates of tyranny to overthrow a government of the people."

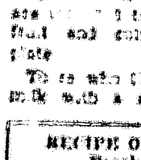
"EASY DOES IT"



When you plan sandwiches for a picnic or a party, it's easy to keep them fresh and tasty if you spread each slice with butter or margarine before adding the filling.

For an apple cheese salad spread each slice with cream cheese that has been softened with a drop or two of lemon juice.

Dip in a bit of shredded orange or lemon peel before you put on the top slice.

Add a few chopped nuts to a fruit and cottage cheese salad plate.

To go with like a cold glass of milk with a sandwich find that

SUCCESSFUL PARENTHOOD

By MRS. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS
Associate Editor, Parents Magazine

FIFTEEN-YEAR-OLD Nancy was secretly ashamed of her home. And because she knew her folks didn't have much money, she felt disloyal to them for wishing they'd fix up the house. Finally Nancy admitted her feelings to herself and decided to do something about them. She saved her allowance and when she had enough money she asked if she might paint the living room. The result was so attractive that Nancy's mother was inspired to dye the faded drapes. Dad got interested too, and built racks for phonograph records.

Unfortunately guilt feelings are not always a spur to constructive action. Sometimes a sense of guilt degenerates into self-pity, martyrdom, alibi-ing, blaming and rationalizing—that is, cloaking over real reasons with "noble" ones. Or a person takes an attitude of "As long as I feel unhappy about it, I'm still paying for my mistake so I don't need to do better." Parents need to recognize these signs of guilt feelings when trying to help adolescents.

What do teen-agers have to feel guilty about? A teen-age magazine reports these as the most important ones, according to a recent survey of high school students: being jealous of brothers and sisters, being ashamed of parents, thinking a lot about sex, liking the wrong people, losing tempers easily, not being loyal to principles, persisting in bad habits, failing to make the most of opportunities

This list points up the fact that the parents' problem isn't one of getting teen-agers to realize that they have faults, but one of helping them to do something constructive. A friendly suggestion is more likely to be followed than a stern command. For example, it doesn't help to say to a tomboyish teenager, "Why can't you be more ladylike?" Clinging to tomboy ways is usually a reaction to the difficulties of growing up. Parents can best discourage the tendency by buying attractive clothes and encouraging more feminine pursuits such as dancing.

"Crushes" on a teacher or older girl should not be laughed at; neither should they be encouraged for a long period. Instead, opportunities for other friendships can be encouraged, perhaps by helping the girl acquire a new skill, so that the tennis club or the photography group will ask her to join. A girl who experiences family life as pleasant will be able to see herself as a mother of a growing family and will accept her future role more easily.

In all these matters, however, it should be remembered that the adolescent is especially sensitive to criticism. Usually he is even more acutely aware of his shortcomings than are his parents. Often he's inwardly appalled by his mistakes. Parents can help best by pointing out that we will all make mistakes and fall short of our inner standards, but that honestly recognizing faults and constantly striving to improve is successful living.

The LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

A bunch of dairymen had a meeting here at Hickory last week. One milk and butter man said that our Govt. has over 100,000,000 pounds of butter on its hands that is so strong that Sambo has to tap it on the head each morning to keep it quiet. That is what the man said—exactly.

Now, what I am driving at is this—if Govt. management of butter is so lame, then how come anybody, anywhere can be in favor of putting Sambo further into even more technical and difficult tasks. In this broad land more folks must decide to listen less to will-o-the-wisp theories — and devote more time to pondering. Folks who have an off-shoot growing up and who would like to see their little "Butch" amount to a hoop, have an opportunity to show his metal, to profit according to his effort—be a pride and joy, instead of taking it easy and secure under a Govt. shade-tree, these folks should take great heed of what is in the wind—as the socialist plot thickens.

Without getting personal, and choosing to make nobody mad, and not wanting to be smarty, I can venture this much in favor of "thinking" versus "just listening." Look at Mr Mule—all ears—see where he landed. Not bad, says Henry—unless the shoe fits. Thank you very much, I says.

LATEST GOVERNMENT BEST SELLER IN THIRD PRINTING

Public demand for the Government's newest best seller entitled "The Effects of Atomic Weapons" has been so great that two printings have been sold out in less than a month since the book was released, the Government Printing Office has announced. The first printing of 10000 copies was sold out August 14, the first day the book was available. A second printing of 20,000 copies is now gone and a third printing of 15,000 copies will be off the presses in a few days. Orders for the book, which sells for $1.25 a copy, are still pouring in to the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D C.

The information contained in the publication answers many of the questions the public is asking about atomic weapons and what effects they would have if put into use. It is of primary interest to persons engaged in civilian defense, the building trades, and others vitally interested in what happens when an atomic bomb explodes.

The book was prepared by the Atomic Energy Commission from secret official scientific and technical information. It is the most informative and authentic book on atomic weapons which can be made public and is the most significant document on atomic energy to be published since the Smyth Report.

Printing and publishing is an important Maine industry, with nearly 75 plants listed in this category.

SOILED VISTA . . . To some, the UN means hope of world peace. To these three men, washing windows on the new secretariat building in New York, it means a wide expanse of dirty glass.

THE COUNTRY PRESS SAYS

Great Falls, Mont., Leader: "Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois is engaged in his annual effort to save the country some money. As usual, he isn't getting anywhere. Except, of course, that he is proving once more that the nation's lawmakers who shout so loudly for economy don't really mean it.

"For this embarrassing persistence, Douglas is not rewarded, either by success or the love of his fellow Democratic senators. But he is honored by people outside of congress who welcome his display of energy and integrity."

Somerset, Pa., Daily American: "President Truman says the government has been the salvation of private enterprise, though the record shows that time and again private enterprise has been the salvation of the government."

Oakland, Calif., Voice: "The president of a Kentucky bank implies that bankers are getting soft. The reason that's happening, he argues, is that banks don't take the risks they used to. More and more, government is guaranteeing credit, underwriting risk, and subsidizing losses.

"In the last two decades, the bank president pointed out, government loans guarantees have increased from only a few hundred million dollars to more than 20 billion. Bankers, he maintains, are well on the way to becoming mere middlemen for government agencies."

Oskaloosa, Iowa, Daily Herald: "The end comes when the government is forced to repudiate its promises, to destroy the bulk of the money it has created. It differs from the bankrupt private citizen only because it doesn't have to ask a court to wipe out its unpayable debts. It can do that job itself."

KEEP YOUR FEET ON THE GROUND

Excessive buying is gradually diminishing. With a little reflection it is easy to see why. Concern over the grim headlines of recent weeks simply caused a lot of people to lose perspective. Indisputable facts meant little—such as booming consumer goods production and soaring agricultural statistics. Meat is a good illustration. Abnormal demand has shoved up some prices but there is no shortage. Within a matter of weeks the biggest pork crop in history will be moving to market. And beef supplies are abundant.

Meat consumption is one of the best indications of a nation's living standard. Here again the figures should help wary consumers get their feet back on the ground. The average family of four in this country eats eleven pounds of meat a week which takes about five hours of the breadwinner's pay. In Russia, by way of contrast, one would have to work 35 hours to pay for the same amount of meat, if it were available.

One very good reason why we have not had serious shortages of necessities in the United States is our free competitive system under which all business, big and little, operates. Wherever there there is a consumer need, it immediately becomes good business for someone to meet that need at a competitive price. While meat cannot be manufactured like automobiles and toothbrushes, meat producers and packers are compelled by the same natural laws governing other free enterprise to do their utmost to satisfy consumer demands.

These are some of the reasons why housewives in our country do not need to scramble for goods. There is more than enough of everything. Practically any other nation in the world would consider itself well off indeed if it had half the abundance of this country.

"Significantly, the great upsurge in farm production during and since World War II came about with only a minor increase in acreage harvested . . . Furthermore, the gains were made in a period when farmers had fewer workers than prewar."

With all our prodigality, we are demonstrating as never before the achievements attainable by free men. It is these achievements that are now being felt in Korea and that are earning the respect of other nations—including Russia.
